

Question#3 : If you could change 1 thing about your favorite framework/language/platform (pick one), what would it be?

Ans:

My favourite language is javascript. If I could change something about it, I would change it from dynamically typed to Statically typed language. This will make it more error free. As programmers might use the same variable somewhere else in the code after defining and using the variable, when dynamically typing the program.